Welcome to the Duskin Museum

▲ Plant at the time of foundation

This is Duskin's original starting point.

▲ Chemically treated dust cloth released in 1964

▲ Inside the plant at the time of foundation

▲ Plant opening ceremony in 1963

On November 16, 1963, Duskin established a small plant for cleaning and processing mats and mops on a land of about 260 m² in Suita City, Osaka. At that time, we only had a washing machine, dewatering machine, manual boiler, and two dryers disposed of by the U.S. military. After that, Duskin worked to forge an all-new culture of cleaning with “chemically treated dust cloth” that does not use water. We also brought the authentic taste of homemade donuts from the U.S. to Japan. Since then, we have continued to bring new joy to people in Japan based on the concepts of “always clean” and “always tasty.”

With a sense of pride as an industry pioneer, Duskin established the Duskin Museum in 2015, on the land where the company started its business. The museum consists of two facilities: the Cleaning Pavilion, where you can have fun learning the history and effective methods of cleaning, and the MISDO Museum, which displays Mister Donut's past food products and other items and where you can experience making donuts.

Experience the present, past and future of Duskin and your mode of life in this museum.
